DEMAND HIGHER PRICES

Milk Producers to Ask for Increase in Prices When Contracts are Signed

PLAN TO HAVE CREAMERIES

Independent Creamery to be Erected at Every Point in District Where a Bottling Plant is Located

The milk producers of the Chicago district Wednesday declared war on the milk trust and planned retaliatory measures, that probably will act as a check, if not entirely an offset, to the ultimatum of the big bottling plants on summer contracts.

In consequence, from twenty to thirty-five creameries and cheese factories are expected to be established in this section. One will be established at each point where there is a bottling plant before March 15, contract signing day. If the Borden prices are not to the farmers' liking and the co-operative plants are running the latter will get the entire output and the bottlers nothing.

On the other hand, if the trust firms yield to the demand for higher rates to the producers, the creameries and cheese factories will be able to utilize the surplus milk product.

High prices were the keynote of the meeting so the consumers of 8 cent milk can extract small comfort therefrom. It was indicated that an increase of 10 per cent an eight gallon can and 16 cents per 100 pounds to the bottlers would be likely.

The consensus of opinion among the directors of the Milk Producers' Protective Association, who constituted the meeting in the Ashland Block, Chicago, was that 1910 will see higher prices for all sorts of dairy products.

"Butter will be higher than for twenty years," said C. H. Potter of Elgin, "and it will undoubtedly sell for 30c a pound by May or June."

The establishment by the association of central depots in Chicago for direct distribution of milk to consumers was placed in the hands of the milk board, consisting of C. H. Potter, Elgin; W. A. Goodwin, Crystal Lake; Ray Paddock, Round Lake; C. E. Williams, Geneva Junction, Wis.; and William N. Osborne, Waukegan, Ind.; with instructions to report at the annual meeting on Feb. 7.

The national convention of milk producers will be held in connection with the annual meeting of the association on Feb. 7, and Secretary James P. Grier was instructed to invite Secretary of Agriculture James Wilson, former Gov. of Wisconsin, and Gov. Warner of Michigan, to be present and address the delegates.

The producers are planning a rally campaign in Northern Illinois and Indiana and Southern Wisconsin and Michigan to enlarge the association's membership for the fight against the milk trust in March.

The accompanying table shows the producers' demands last spring, what they received at the hands of the bottling firms and the probable demand this year for milk at 100 pounds:

	Demand	Price	Probable 19
Month	1909	1909	Demand
April.....	$1.50	$1.40	$1.55
May.....	1.20	1.10	1.25
June.....	1.05	.95	1.10
July.....	1.20	1.05	1.20-2
August.....	1.45	1.25	1.40-4
Sept.....	1.50	1.35	1.50

Average, $1.81 $1.18 $1.83-35
The probable schedule gives no hint of a return to the 7 cent milk either. This table shows the bulk price obtained last summer and the probable advance per eight gallon can:

Month	1909	1910
May.....	$1.05	$1.15
June.....	1.00	1.10
July.....	1.10	1.20
August.....	1.20	1.30
September.....	1.20	1.30
October.....	1.25	1.35

Twenty-six out of the twenty-nine directors of the Producers' Ass'n attended the meeting, including President J. P. Mason of Elgin and Secretary Grier.

PAY FOR ENUMERATORS

Pay Higher Than That Received in the Year of 1900

Information comes from Washington on the point of most interest to the persons who are to do the census enumerating, the question of pay. United Census Director Durand says that for the thirteenth census which will begin April 1, there are to be three general rates—the per capita, the mixed, and per diem. The first and second general rates have five subdivisions each. The per diem rates range from $3 to $3.50, $4, $4.50, $5, $5.50 and $6, and are to be paid for a day of eight hours' work.

For enumerators on the per capita basis, which will be the most widely used, the pay for each inhabitant is: Class A, two cents; class B, two and one half cents; class C, three cents; class D, three and one half cents, and class E, four cents. Such enumerators will also be paid for each farm as follows: Class A, twenty cents; class B, twenty-two and one half cents; class C, twenty-five cents; class D, twenty-seven cents; and class E, thirty cents. These rates are in each case five cents or more higher than those paid in 1900, when the range was from fifteen to twenty cents. For each establishment of productive industry the rate of each class is thirty cents. For each barn and inclosure containing live stock not on farms, the pay is ten cents for each class.

Under the mixed rate, which is a combination of the per capita and per diem is: Class F, $1.; Class G, $1.25; H, $1.50; I, $1.75; and J, $2.00. For each inhabitant the pay is: Class F, two cents; G, two and one half cents; H, two and one half cents; I, two and one half cents; J, two and one half cents; and J, three cents. For each farm: Class F, fifteen cents; G, seventeen and one half cents; H, seventeen and one half cents; I and J, twenty cents each. For each establishment and productive industry the rate is twenty cents for each class.

THE BLIND PIGS MUST GO

Federal Government May be Stopped From Issuing License in Dry Territory

Hundreds of liquor sellers in prohibition districts in Chicago and other parts of Illinois will be put out of business if a bill introduced last week by Representative Thomas M. Bell of Georgia becomes a law.

The bill provides that hereafter the federal government shall issue no internal revenue licenses to retail liquor dealers in state, county or municipal prohibition territory. It is made the duty of the internal revenue collectors to keep themselves informed of the existence and extent of prohibition districts within their jurisdiction and to refuse government licenses to liquor dealers therein.

There illicit liquor dispensaries run in defiance of the local law officers, but they don't take such risks when it comes to the federal government. They take out the federal licenses because they know it will go hard with them if they are discovered selling without licenses by the internal revenue sleuths. Then they trust to luck and pull that they will not be brought to time by the local authorities.

If, however, "blind pigs" are refused federal licenses, few of them will risk operation, as they would be liable to prosecution at any time by the government.

In many of the prohibition southern states the "blind pig" evil is so prevalent that measures of this nature are deemed necessary to its extermination.

BLOWING OUT GAS CAUSES DEATH OF HAINESVILLE MAN

Seth Turner, a prominent resident of Hainesville, went into Chicago Saturday to buy a team of horses and not getting his choice made, stopped all night with some friends, Mr. and Mrs. Pollesen.

In the morning Sunday, when the Polsesens tried to arouse Turner near 9, they found on entering his room that he had blown out the gas in all probability, as he was at the last gasp and in a short time died, despite the efforts of doctors, hurriedly summoned.

The dead man was 40 and leaves a wife and large family. The funeral was held Tuesday from the Grayslake Methodist church. The late Mr. Turner had $1,000 insurance in the "Gleaners." Mr. has at various times been employed in and around Antioch and is quite well known hereabouts.

TEACHERS' INSTITUTE FEB. 4TH

State Supt. of Schools Francis G. Blair to Speak on "the Home and the School"

MEET AT HIGHLAND PARK

List of Speakers is an Excellent One—Three Hundred Teachers are Expected to be in Attendance

County Superintendent of Schools T. A. Simpson has arranged his program for the Lake County Teachers' Midwinter meeting at Highland Park, Friday, Feb. 4, 1910, as follows:

9:30—Illustrations with lantern and stereoscope—Supt. J. L. Smith, Highland Park.

10:00—Story Telling—Miss Bertha L. Harvey, Lake Forest school.

10:45—Address, the Home and the School—State Supt. Francis G. Blair.

11:45—Problems in Tone Production—Class Demonstration—Herman L. Walker, Highland Park school.

1:30—Address, the Opportunity of Moral and Religious Education in the Public Schools—Theodore G. Soares, University of Chicago.

2:30—Address, Class Room Work—Charles A. McMurry, N. I. S. N. S., DeKalb.

The program shows that the list of speakers is one of the best that ever has been heard in the county. It is expected that three hundred teachers will be present at the meeting. The meeting will be held in the auditorium of the Highland Park public school. Principal Sandwick of the Deerfield Township High school has extended an invitation to the teachers to visit the new lunch room that has been installed in the high school. Lunch will be served at a reasonable figure.

Supt. Jesse L. Smith of Highland Park is one of the best speakers in the county. He will illustrate the methods of teaching by the stereopticon and stereoscope, dealing with the teaching of industries, phases of commerce and nature study.

Miss Bertha L. Harvey of Lake Forest is the head of the kindergarten department of that city and is well fitted to speak on the value of story telling in the primary grades. As examples she will tell several children's stories.

This is the first time that State Supt. Francis G. Blair has spoken in Lake county. His reputation as a speaker is well known and his address upon "The Home and the School" should be an interesting one as he will show the close alliance that should exist between these two institutions.

Herman L. Walker, teacher of music in the Highland Park and Lake Forest schools, will have something interesting to say on the topic that has been assigned to him. His system of teaching music has ever been a keen revelation to other instructors throughout the county.

Theodore G. Soares of the department of the Practical Theology in the Chicago University, has spoken at many state and national meetings. He is well known through the middle west and is always in great demand.

Dr. Charles A. McMurry of the Northern Illinois State Normal school, is instructor in pedagogy and assistant in psychology. He will exemplify real school work, making everything practical in nature.

LAKE COUNTY REPRESENTED ON FEDERAL JURY

John Whalen of Waukegan was on the federal court grand jury venire of forty-five men in Chicago and was of the number chosen to make the beef trust inquiry that is expected to result in the indictment of the big packers.

In this connection the two biggest packers in the world are Lake County men, Louis F. Swift, whose annual business is the largest in the world in the packing business, and J. Ogden Armour, who is given the title of meat king. His aide Arthur Meeker is also a Lake County man and different officials associated with the packing trust reside in this county.

George E. Webb of this place was also on the grand jury venire but on account of an error in the subpoena in which his name appeared as George B. Webb instead of George E. Webb he was rejected and consequently is not serving on the jury.

Out of the forty-five subpoenaed only twenty-two were accepted among them being John Whalen of Waukegan.

KILLED BY ST. PAUL TRAIN

William Kennedy of Chicago, Meets Death on St. Paul Near Warrenton

POOR EYESIGHT THE CAUSE

Was Walking North on St. Paul Track When Run Down by Work Train and Instantly Killed

After returning from a day spent looking for work, William Kennedy, aged 30 years, son of Mrs. Patrick Dugan of Warrenton, was killed by a St. Paul train near Warrenton on Monday evening at 6 o'clock.

His body was terribly mangled for the young man was run right down by the train, having stepped directly in front of the engine.

Kennedy lived in Chicago, but had come to visit his mother Saturday. He was a painter by trade and had done work in the vicinity last fall and came here at this time to see if he could land some more work. Finding none, early in the morning he said he would go to Libertyville to see if he could get work cutting ice. The day was spent in Libertyville and he took the electric car east, getting off at Roundout to walk up to Warrenton along the St. Paul tracks.

The fact that Kennedy did not have good eyesight is believed to have been the cause of him being unable to discern the train. He was walking north on the north bound track when a train approached from the north on the south bound track. It was a train which runs between Roundout and Wadsworth, picking up section hands, etc.

Kennedy did not hear the train until the engineer blew the whistle and the belief is that because of his defective eyesight, he believed the train was coming behind him and he stepped over from the north bound to the south bound track. He realized his mistake just too late, for the engineer declares, he again started to jump aside when the train was upon him and had one foot partly off the track. However the engine struck him and he was killed instantly.

DEDICATE NEW SCHOOL AT LAKE VILLA

Friday evening of last week the residents of our sister village, Lake Villa, dedicated their new school house which has just been completed at a cost of ten thousand dollars. On account of the bad roads very few from out of town were in attendance but over one hundred of the villagers turned out to the exercises.

The program was composed of speeches, music and songs. Mr. H. S. Sherwood, an old resident of the village and a former school teacher, told of the early schools, referring to the time when he taught the only school in the vicinity, when Antioch was larger than Chicago and people used to take their products to Waukegan, then Little Fort.

M. S. Miller, an old school teacher, also gave a very interesting talk. County Superintendent of Schools, T. A. Simpson gave an address on the Consolidation of Schools in the Rural Districts.

A fine musical program was rendered by the school children.

In connection with the dedication of the new school, the village's new public library of five hundred volumes was also dedicated. It has quarters in the new school building.

Imposed on Author.

For careless generosity, Daudet, the great French writer, could not be outclassed by any man of his time. At one time he used to place on the mantelpiece of his study, at the time when he held his weekly receptions, a bowl which was filled with silver coins. It was understood that if anyone of the bachelors of letters who came to see him needed a little financial assistance he could go to the bowl and help himself. The experiment naturally failed. There were those who came to the receptions only for the sake of the bowl; there were those who put too liberal an interpretation on the mute invitation extended to them. "I used to see fellows pocketing the coins by handfuls," said Daudet, "and in the end I had to abandon the practice."

PASSED TO HER REWARD

Mrs. Richard Martin Died at her Home at Twelve O'clock Sunday Night

Just as the clock was pointing to the hour of midnight on Sunday last the Angel of Death entered the home of Mr. Richard Martin on Victoria street and removed therefrom the companion of his declining years.

Although Mrs. Martin had been in failing health for the past few years and was feeble with advancing age, her last illness was of only a short duration and her death was quite unexpected. She was taken ill only a few days before her death, the cause of which was a severe case of pneumonia.

Mrs. Martin was born in Ireland on the seventeenth day of March 1827, and passed away at her home in Antioch on the twenty-third day of January 1910, at the age of eighty-two years, ten months and six days.

She was united in marriage to Richard Martin in Ireland about fifty years ago and shortly afterward they came to America and settled in New York where they remained only about two years. Then coming to Illinois they settled in Lake County on a little place at Loon Lake, where they made their home for nearly forty years. About three or four years ago they disposed of the old home and moved to this village where they have since resided.

By her death Mr. Martin is left very much alone in his declining years, there being no children born to them and no near relatives in this country.

Mrs. Martin was of a quiet retiring disposition, but ever ready to lend a helping hand to those in need of aid and had a large number of close friends who sincerely regret to learn of her demise.

The funeral services were held at St. Peter's church at half past nine o'clock Wednesday forenoon, with Father Lynch officiating. The remains were interred in the Mill Creek cemetery.

ENGINEER STICKS TO POST

When Crown Cap of Boiler Blows Out and Envelopes Him in Steam

An engineer and a fireman were severely scalded by steam Monday when the crown cap of a boiler of a freight train on the Wisconsin division of the Chicago & Northwestern railroad blew out two miles south of Barrington.

The accident delayed service on the Wisconsin division, and hundreds of suburbanites were put in peril, delayed and inconvenienced.

Those injured are: Fred Wooding, Barrington, engineer, hands, face and body scalded, taken to his home.

Albert Caeber, Palestine, Ill., fireman, severe scalds about body, arms and hands, taken to his home.

The accident occurred soon after six o'clock and caused a panic on a near-by passenger train.

The freight train was bound for Chicago from Barrington. It was running at moderate speed. Two miles south of Barrington the crown cap of the locomotive boiler blew out without warning and the hissing steam suddenly enveloped the engineer and fireman, who had no opportunity to escape.

Although blinded by the cloud of steam that scalded his flesh, Engineer Wooding remained at his post until he stopped the train. Then he and the fireman jumped.

The report of the escaping steam attracted railroad employees at work in the yards and they went to the injured men.

The accident is said to have been caused by a defect in the flues.

HUNTINGTON WILL BE CANDIDATE

Farmer Supervisor Den Huntington of Elia township Monday declared he is to be a candidate for the office of Supervisor Ficke who, two years ago, defeated him by one vote.

Mr. Huntington was supervisor from Elia for nineteen years and made a most able man in the position. His defeat came as a surprise to his many friends who later declared that had they known he was in danger, could have carried him through with ease. Mr. Huntington was always one of the most faithful and conscientious members of the board and his administration was marked by one thing which gave him strength each year: independence of the clique which has run the board of supervisors. Always alert to save unnecessary expenses and insisting upon knowing where money went, he acquired the enmity of those who could not control him but it made him strong with the voters.

WEALTHY MEN HELP SCHOOLS

Blair Says Millionaires Avoid Payment of Taxes, Make Rural Schools Poor

NOT SO IN LAKE COUNTY

Joseph Medill Patterson and F. E. Marsh, Both Millionaires, are School Directors—Armours Take Interest, Too

The declaration of State Superintendent of Schools Frank F. Blair at a recent meeting of his assistants in Chicago that wealthy men buying country homes avoid paying their tax and cause country schools to be so impoverished that they cannot pay living wages to teachers has aroused a tempest in a teapot in Lake county.

While the comments on the remarks are not bitter, they are forceful and conditions show that in this county the millionaire residents are boosters of the country school.

In fact in a district south of Libertyville, Joseph Medill Patterson, millionaire socialist, author and playwright, whose two plays, "The Fourth Estate" and "A Little Brother of the Rich," are now running in the Chicago theatres, and F. E. Marsh, owner of the Grattan stock farm and the Libertyville mile oval, are both directors and besides fostering the school and making it possible to pay a teacher well, have donated books and taken an active interest in the school affairs.

On the Armour place, the J. Ogden Armour's also foster a country school, although there are three farmers on the directorate. Armour some time ago visited the school and took a great interest in its work.

"As far as I know," said County Superintendent of Schools Simpson, "there is not a wealthy resident who avoids payment of taxes or in any way contributes to the impoverishment of a district. On the contrary, the wealthy residents of the country districts, wherever found, take an interest in the local country school and help it all they can."

"There are no schools in Lake county that ought to be closed on account of incompetent teachers or like conditions, but there are schools that ought to be closed because of the slim attendance of five or less."

The remarks that stirred the tempest and that appeared in a Chicago paper, later to be repeated by a Kankakee paper, are as follows:

"That the tenant system of farming, the buying up by wealthy men of great tracts of land and leasing them in small lots to the former owners, is raising havoc with the country schools of Illinois, is the statement made before the monthly meeting of the Chicago head assistants by State Superintendent Francis G. Blair."

"Mr. Blair says he found conditions so deplorable that after he had drafted with much labor, a report on educational conditions in Illinois for a Boston educator he refused to send it because it would bring disgrace on the state."

"Mr. Blair claims that the wealthy men evade the payment of just taxes and that consequently rural school districts have not enough money to hire competent teachers. He says there are at least 500 school rooms in the state that might just as well be closed, on account of incompetency of the teachers. In one case he found a girl teaching in a country school for $10 a month. He declares that pupils of a teacher worth no more than that could hope to receive little benefit from her instruction."—Waukegan Sun.

Where Belshazzar Feasted.
German excavators in the ruins of Babylon have been looking over Nebuchadnezzar's palace. The ancient city is buried beneath the remains of superimposed buildings, but the tomb of the old civilization has been made to yield its secrets. There has been found the great oblong hall, with an alcove for the throne, where Belshazzar held the famous feast and heard the warning voice of the prophet. Many relics of those precursors of the modern public dinner have been discovered. The architecture of those days seems to have been mighty. One of the outer walls of the palace was more than 24 yards thick.

STRIVE TO ATTAIN IDEAL

Exercise of Will Power Can Do Much to Cultivate Both the Mind and the Body.

"As a man thinketh in his heart, so is he." His opinion of himself will be reproduced by the life processes within him and outpictured in his body, writes Orison Swett Marden in Success. If you would make the most of yourself, never picture yourself as anything different from what you would actually have yourself, from what you long to become. Whenever you think of yourself, form a mental image of a perfect, healthy, beautiful, noble being, not lacking in anything, the person you wish to become. Positively refuse to see anything about yourself which you would not like to have true.

If we would make the most of our lives, if we would be and do all that it is possible for us to be and to do, we must not only think well of ourselves, but we must also be just to ourselves physically, be good to our bodies. In order to be the highest, the most efficient type of man or woman, it is just as necessary to cultivate the body, to develop its greatest possible strength and beauty, as it is to cultivate the mind, to raise it to its highest power.

Iron Fence Has Lasted Long. "No finer example of the durability of iron exists than that railing around Boyling Green," remarked a Whitehall street patriarch, on the custom house steps, and gazing fondly down on the fence.

"That was put there during the stamp riots before the revolution and at the same time a large leaden statue of King George was erected where the middle of the fountain now is. About the time that the ravages of the elements made the statue unsightly, fancy tips of some other metal were put on the main posts of the iron fence. These, too, have rusted off or been removed in my time, yet that old iron fence stands there as good to-day as when it was put up 140 years or more ago.

"You see, there has been a silene removed to make room for that subway kiosk. I tried to get it at the time, but was told by the contractors that William Barclay Parsons had had it carted to his own home as a relic."

Scotch Hangman Struck Sabbatarian. The last public execution in Scotland took place at Dumfries. The Dumfries and Galloway Courier publishes letters from Calcraft and Asker, two executioners of the day. Calcraft's missives are ill written and ill spelled, but one from Asker exhibits that public officer in the light of a Sabbatarian. Here is his letter: "I duly received your note of the 2d instant. Doubt not before this you have received my note of the 1st. Will bring with me what I require. Forgive to state in my former note that my charges are strictly uniform, the journey by rail the only difference. As the 12th will be on Tuesday it would necessitate travelling on Sunday, which would be objectionable. Please write me, as if I come on Saturday it will incur a small additional expense. Please remove any anxiety from the minds of the authorities, as the engagement will be faithfully carried out."

Herbert Spencer's Philosophy. Herbert Spencer was an enthusiastic billiard player. He says that he found it "a very desirable way of passing the time," because it prevented thinking and excluded the temptation to read. "It suffices for me," he frankly adds, "that I like billiards, and the attainment of the pleasure given I regard as a sufficient motive. I have for a long time deliberately set my face against the asceticism which makes it an offense to do a thing for the pleasure of doing it. The opposite view is nothing else than a remote sequence of the old devil worship of the barbarian, who sought to please his god by inflicting pain on himself, and believed his god would be angry if he made himself happy."

"Poor Kinsmen" In Luck. Alderman Henry Smith of London in 1647 left by will $5,000 for the relief of captives held by Turkish pirates, and $5,000 for his poor kinsmen. As the success of Turkish prisoners became inoperative with the lapse of time, an act passed in 1772 diverting all the money to the poor kinsmen, who in 1868 were 412. The chancery court, in 1877, stepped in with an order applying all the funds to general charitable purposes, but this decision was reversed on appeal, and the "poor Smiths" were left for the time in the enjoyment of their inheritance, which in 1880—such is the growth of money—was reckoned to be worth about $35,000 a year.

GIVES UP ITS DEAD

THIRTY-ONE BODIES RECOVERED FROM CARS IN SPANISH RIVER.

SCORE MORE STILL IN CARS

Total Casualties in Canadian Pacific Wreck Undetermined—More Than 30 Injured Are in Hospitals—Heroic Conductor Saves Eight Passengers.

Sudbury, Ont.—The scene of Friday's Canadian Pacific wreck at Spanish river presented an almost hopeless field of labor for the hundred or more men sent to clear away the wreckage and recover the victims' bodies. Three big dray loads of coffins were waiting Sunday to receive the bodies of upward of two score victims.

Thirty-one bodies had been recovered Sunday and it is believed there are still a score or more in the submerged cars.

Two of the wrecked cars, the colonist car and the first-class coach, whose ventilators were visible above the water, drifted under the bridge during the day and finally were submerged, while thick ice has formed above them, making it difficult to locate them. The dining car is partly submerged in the river, and little remains of the coach which took fire.

More than thirty injured were taken to the General hospital and the hotels of Sudbury.

The number of bodies lying in the cars may not be known for many days. Among passengers unaccounted for are Rev. Mr. Childhouse, Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., and Auditor Robertson of the Canadian Pacific railroad.

The wreck occurred on a 200-foot steel bridge with overhead girders and a 30-foot embankment sloping down to the Spanish river underneath.

The engine and three cars had passed safely upon the bridge when the forward trucks of the second-class coach jumped the track and struck an immense steel girder with such force as to snap the girder in two and split the car as if divided with a cleaver. The rear of the second-class coach swayed out to one side, pulling the colonist car, first-class coach and diner off the bridge into the river and tipping over the Pullman beside the track.

In the dining car occurred one of the greatest struggles men ever made to save their lives. The first call for dinner had just been made and Conductor Thomas Reynolds of North Bay was one of the diners. With him were W. J. Bell, a lumberman of Sudbury; David Brodie, police magistrate of the district of Sudbury, and several others.

In an instant all were in the water above their heads. Reynolds exhorted the passengers to hang on to the hat racks, chandeliers and other projections and, diving into the icy waters, he broke through a window and emerged on the outside of the car.

By the merest chance, the car had listed sufficiently to allow him to get up between the ice and the car. Climbing up to the roof, he reached in and pulled Alfonso Rousel, six years old, of the Canadian Soo, and Police Magistrate Brodie of Sudbury, a small man, through the ventilators. The others were too large. No ax was available and with almost superhuman strength Reynolds, aided by those inside, tore a hole in the roof, through which eight passengers escaped—all who came out of the water alive with the exception of Brakeman Morrison, who was at the rear of the first-class coach, and another man who managed to reach the surface.

The first to come through the roof of the dining car was W. J. Bell of Sudbury. He is resting in his home, but 30 stitches were required to close his wounds. Police Magistrate Brodie has three broken ribs and his face and scalp are terribly cut. He is confined to the General hospital. Conductor Reynolds was bruised and cut, but was able to return to his home at North Bay. The chef and waiters of the diner were trapped in a small compartment of the car, but were rescued.

JOHN R. WALSH IS NO. 6861

ENJOYS MANY LUXURIES NOT GIVEN TO OTHERS.

Is Given an Easy Task of Clipping "Criminal News" from the Newspapers.

Fort Leavenworth, Kan. — Even behind the bare of the federal prison at Fort Leavenworth the powerful influences that kept John R. Walsh out of a cell for two years after he was proved a felon have prevailed. John R. Walsh, convict No. 6861, is enjoying practically every luxury that was enjoyed by Walsh, the possessor of $40,000,000 and an income that could satisfy the wishes of any human being.

From the moment that Walsh passed the threshold of the great national penitentiary these influences were evident. Walsh was not compelled to wear a "rogue's gallery" picture. His measurements were not taken for the Bertillon system. He has not been forced to eat of the coarse fare nor off the common wooden tables of the 996 other convicts.

But of greatest importance, Walsh has not and probably will not be compelled to sleep in one of the iron-grated cells during all of his five years' stay at the prison.

Even in the matter of labor, Walsh has been peculiarly favored. While other federal offenders, including nearly a score of former millionaires and bankers, are handling brick and sawing stone, Walsh will be reading the newspapers. His daily task will be to handle newspapers and clip "criminal news" to be pasted into a book provided for the purpose.

12 PERISH IN FACTORY FIRE

Girls Among Victims of Blaze in Philadelphia—Scores Jump from Windows.

Philadelphia.—The six-story building at 200 and 202 Chancellor street, in the heart of the produce market, was destroyed by fire Wednesday, and a dozen persons, most of them young women, lost their lives.

About 20 men and girls are in hospitals suffering from burns and injuries received in jumping out of windows. There were 100 men, women and children employed by various small firms in the building, the interior of which was burned.

The fire is said to have started on the third floor, either from a slight explosion or the blowing out of a fuse in an electric switchboard.

Those on that floor were thrown into a panic. The cry of fire was spread. When the excitement reached the three upper floors a wild rush for life ensued. Many of the girls were young and became helpless in the panic.

The workers on the first and second floors and most of those on the third escaped, but those in the upper portion of the building were blocked at the third floor, which was a mass of flames.

The stairway was blocked with a solid mass of persons fighting for life. Some got through, others fell unconscious on the stairs and others rushed to the windows to jump.

1,000 SIGN AT WILMINGTON

All Classes Are Pledging Themselves to Abstain from Meat Until Price Is Lowered.

Wilmington, Del. — It is estimated that 1,000 Wilmingtonians already have signed the petitions agreeing to abstain from meat for 30 days, or until the price is lowered to a reasonable figure. The petitions are being signed by lawyers, physicians and business men, as well as workmen. Local meat dealers are becoming alarmed.

Omaha, Neb., Jan. 21.—Fifteen thousand men in Omaha refusing to eat meat for one month is the number for which the labor unions of this city are striving as members of the Anti-Meat Eating club, which they have formed as a protest against the high price of meats and the exactions of the beef trust.

INQUIRY BEGINS THIS WEEK

BALLINGER-PINCHOT QUIZ WILL BE FORMULATED TUESDAY.

Taking of Testimony In New Famous Case Will Probably Commence Next Friday.

Washington.—The Ballinger-Pinchot investigation will be formulated Tuesday, when the joint congressional commission has another meeting. The exact time for the examination of witnesses and other preliminaries will be arranged.

All the surface work will be outlined, leaving the deep processes for future consideration. It already seems certain that not much can be accomplished until late in the summer, especially if the committee must adjourn and sit in Alaska, where a personal inspection of the coal lands in dispute may be made.

Senator Nelson will confer with Secretary Ballinger, Gifford Pinchot, Glavin, Shaw, and Price over the preliminaries, and will report to his colleagues on Tuesday as to the time needed by the parties to the controversy, for the preparation of their briefs, statements and testimony. Many witnesses will be brought to Washington by both sides, and some of those who will testify will come all the way from Alaska.

The impression now is that the taking of testimony will begin on Friday.

SLAYER HAS COLD HEART

Alleged Murderer of Girl Spurns Offer of Forgiveness from Victim's Mother and Sister.

Wilkesbarre, Pa.—Mrs. Susan Lee, a Dowdette, of Zion City, Ill., and her daughter came here to forgive George L. Marlon, the New York theatrical man, who, it is alleged, murdered her daughter here last August, but she was spurned by Marlon, who declined to pay any attention to her.

Mrs. Lee as a Dowdette believes in forgiving those who have wronged her. When Marlon was brought into court, she advanced, extended her hand and murmured that she had come to tell him she forgave him. Marlon ignored her and turned away and then her daughter, Miss Grace Lee, also extended her hand. "We forgive you and have come to help you," she said. Marlon turned away exclaiming "I don't know who you are."

Trustee O'Mara now can sell to Alice Copley Thaw her brother's personal property, consisting of real estate, scarves, books, and old pictures, for the petitioned sum of $40,000.

Big Firm Suspenders. New York.—Following the suspension of the firms of Lathrop, Haskins & Co., and J. M. Thomas of the New York stock exchange shortly after the opening of the exchange Thursday announced the failure of the firm of Roberts, Hall & Criss, brokers, with offices at 62 Broadway. In a general way the failure of Roberts, Hall & Criss represents $3,000,000; that of Lathrop, Haskins & Co., something like $1,000,000; and that of J. M. Fleke & Co., $2,000,000, or about $6,000,000.

OMAHA PEOPLE GREATLY EXCITED

THE GREAT COOPER AS HE IS CALLED HAS STIRRED UP THAT CITY TO A REMARKABLE DEGREE.

Omaha, Nebraska, January 26.—This city is at present in the midst of an excitement beyond anything that it has experienced in recent years.

Old and young, rich and poor, all seem to have become beside themselves over an individual who was a stranger to Omaha up to two weeks ago.

The man who has created all this turmoil is L. T. Cooper, President of the Cooper Medicine Co., of Dayton, Ohio, who is at present introducing his preparations in this city for the first time.

Cooper is a man about thirty years of age and has acquired a fortune within the past two years by the sale of some preparations of which he is the owner.

Reports from eastern cities that preceded the young man here were of the most startling nature, many of the leading dailies going so far as to state that he had nightly cured in public places rheumatism of years' standing with one of his preparations. The physicians of the East contradicted this statement, claiming the thing to be impossible, but the facts seemed to bear out the statement that Cooper actually did so.

In consequence people flocked to him by thousands and his preparations sold like wildfire.

Many of these stories were regarded as fictitious in Omaha, and until Cooper actually reached this city little attention was paid to them. Hardly had the young man arrived, however, when he began giving demonstrations, as he calls them, in public, and daily met people afflicted with rheumatism, and with a single application of one of his preparations actually made them walk without the aid of either canes or crutches.

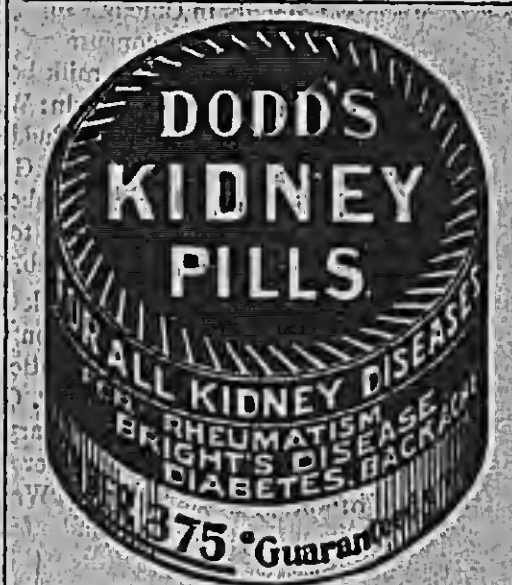

In addition to this work Cooper advanced the theory that stomach trouble is the foundation of nine out of ten diseases and claimed to have a preparation that would restore the stomach to working order and thus get rid of such troubles as catarrh and affections of the kidneys and liver, in about two weeks' time.

This statement seems to have been borne out by the remarkable results obtained through the use of his preparation, and now all Omaha is apparently mad over the young man.

How long the tremendous interest in Cooper will last is hard to estimate. At present there seems to be no sign of a let-up. Reputable physicians claim it to be a fact that will die out as soon as Cooper leaves.

In justice to him, however, it must be said that he seems to have accomplished a great deal for the sick of this city with his preparations.

Nobody will use other people's experience, nor has any of his own till it is too late to use it.—Nathaniel Hawthorne.

Four Boys Who Rule Five Hundred Millions

FIRST among the four in importance is undoubtedly the baby emperor of China, little Pu Yi, who was born so lately as 1906. Only as may be surmised, the actual reins of state are not held by his tiny hands, but by those of his uncle, who is acting as regent till his majority. Even his power, though he represents in theory an absolute monarchy, is yet in practice limited by several advising boards, composed of the grand council, the government council, the board of censors and many viceroys, who all have a voice in the settlement of affairs of state.

The three-year-old emperor who holds in his hands the lives and fortunes of over four hundred and fifty millions, is of course, yet in the nursery with his toys, but already a scheme of education upon broad western lines is being planned for him in order to fit him for his position on the throne. Progress is capable of doing strange things in China, and by the time he ascends to the throne, his country may be one for western nations to cope with in the field of industry, or of military supremacy in the east. Already China is making vast strides, and assimilating ideas in every branch of civilization, which cannot but threaten with the passage of years, to put her neighbor, Japan, in the shade. It is to be hoped that the emperor, when he does come to occupy that position, which has proved so often ill-fated to many of his ancestors of the Ja Ching or "Great Pure" dynasty, of which he is the sixteenth in the canonized series; may exert all the influence at his command in the interests of peace.

Meanwhile, he is learning of the wonders of the west, in the shape of toy trains and other mechanical toys sent him by other juvenile royalties, and being taught that to rule well one must learn first of all, to be obedient to the rules which guide man through life.

Next comes Ahmed Mirza, the boy king of Persia, which holds within its 635,000 square miles, a scattered population of nine millions. He too, is under the care of a regent, Asad VI Mulk, who is head of the powerful Kajar tribe, of which the shah's mother was a princess; and to whose influence he owes his position, since he is not the eldest son of the deposed Ali Mirza. He is only 13 years old, and another three years will have to pass before he is crowned.

It is no wonder that with the example before him of his father, who was removed from the throne after a brief and troubled reign of two years, that he wept bitterly when the news of his accession was brought to him in the Russian legation, for he was extremely fond of his father, and could not understand why he was not allowed to go to him. It was only after his vizier had scolded him harshly that he dried his tears and prepared to accept the honor which had been done him. Now he is practically a prisoner in his own palace, in the enervating atmosphere of the women's apartments, where his education is being carried on in a way contrary to the wishes of the national reform party, who brought about his sudden change from the position of a spoiled child to that of a king. His native tutors endeavor to teach him Persian, Arabic, history and writing, but his attention is allowed to be distracted by the interruptions of the many chamberlains and courtiers who are permitted to be present. His only companions are a few young slaves and there is nothing being done to prepare him for the lofty duties which he must fulfill at an early date.

The throne and the many attendant ceremonies appealed to him merely as parts of a new game and he soon tired of the obsequious homage with which he was surrounded and to-day he is no more than an unhappy child.

A change, however, is promised by the reformers, who are only awaiting the voting of funds to put their intentions in execution. He will be removed from the influence of the woman's apartments, foreign tutors will instruct him in their language; the best of the Persian scholars will be chosen to incite in him the precepts which are thought best, with oriental languages and history; and he will be given companions of more suitable birth chosen from the noble families of his kingdom. All these advantages will be used to transform him into a ruler such as Persia ought to have to flatter the glories of Alexander and Darius.

Manuel, king of Portugal, is just on the border line of manhood and is of such boyish appearance that he may well be included among boy kings. He celebrated his twentieth birthday last month and is consequently the youngest monarch in Europe. It will not be forgotten that he was the second son of King Carlos and that he was suddenly called to the throne by the tragic assassination of his father and his elder brother, Luiz. Although his own inclinations guide him toward an artist's life, he was always possessed of a high ideal of the duties imposed upon him by his royal birth and a reserve of will power to carry out his ideals at all costs.

The area over which he rules, including the islands of Azores, covers a total of 35,490 square miles and his people number five and a half millions. Though Manuel ascended the throne at a time when there was nothing but the murmur of anarchy in his ears and his thoughts were assailed by sad recollections, he has come through the events which succeeded his accession with an equanimity and diplomatic grasp of the situation which does infinite credit to him and his training.

As it is the duty of a king to his people to marry, he has lately been going a-wooing in England, but there has been a distinct hesitancy on the part of his princesses to share his fortunes, which may or may not, as time will show, be checked with misfortune. If not with tragedy, and he left England with nothing decided. But sooner or later he must make up his mind, and meanwhile matchmaking Europe is discreetly but earnestly making plans for his future.

His Highness David Chua, Kabaka or King of Uganda, grandson of the celebrated Mutesa, is a minor under a regency of three native chiefs, who are assisted in the fact that out of a population of three and a half millions one million are Christians while 200,000 of them can read and write.

The dynasty of Uganda, of which David Chua is the thirty-seventh representative, in its earlier origin was a king to the inhabitants of Egypt, though as intermarriage took place with the native race who have always inhabited the kingdom the present representative is in appearance negro with a slightly paler skin than the average and large, clear eyes. That there is good ground for the belief in Egyptian origin is proved by the fact that a certain portion of his people in feature (though with curly hair) and in their traditions have much in common with the Egyptians. The Kabaka lives in Mengo, a straggling city of about 80,000 inhabitants, built like Rome on seven hills, most of them of great steepness, round which are marshy tracts. The quarter inhabited by the king and his court and the people of higher degree is clean and picturesque, surrounded by trees and gardens, while a cathedral opened a few years ago helps to give it the appearance of a capital city, which it will probably resemble more and more as the improvements now in progress are carried out.

The protectorate administration is carried on at Entebbe, which is renowned for its beauty, surrounded by lofty incense trees, which have always a lead of chattering parrots and monkeys in search of the plums they bear at certain seasons of the year.

government by a native assembly or Lukiko. Besides that there is a British commissioner, as Uganda is a protectorate of Great Britain, who helps to keep things in order with the aid of a battalion of the King's African Rifles and about a thousand armed constabulary.

The Kabaka, however, is allowed perfect freedom, for the people of Uganda are unique among the native races of Africa. They are an amiable, polite and intelligent race, as is shown by the

The boy Kabaka, though his kingdom is the smallest of the four, is probably most to be envied, for his position is free from the many cares which will assuredly beset the emperor of China and the shah of Persia in later years.

SHRINKS FROM POMP

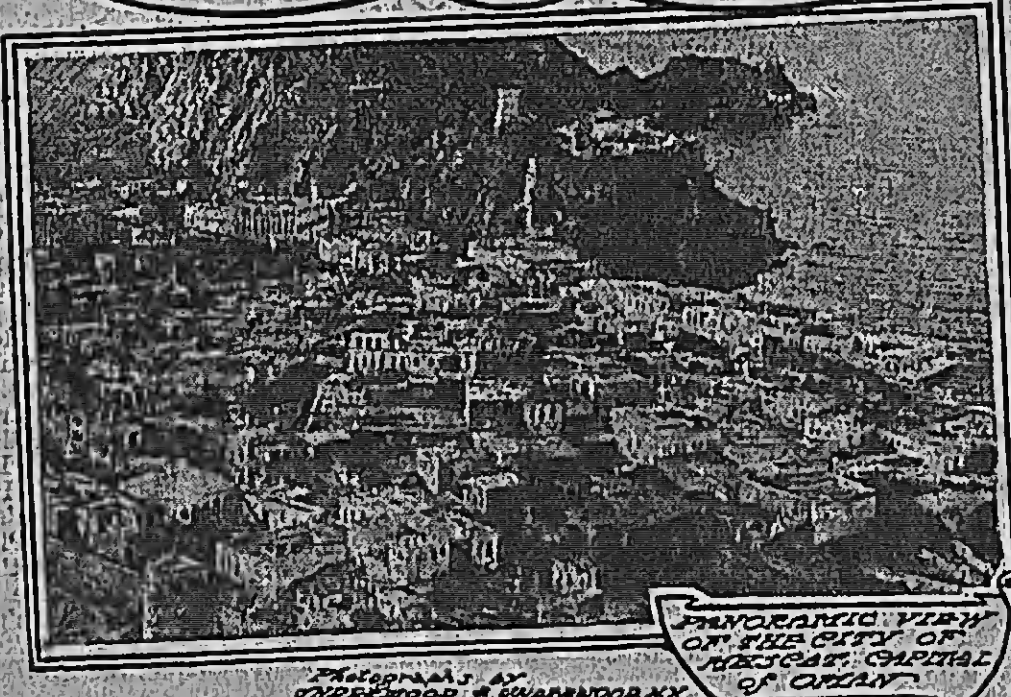

When Princess Victoria of England, daughter of Queen Alexandra, was a girl of 14 it became her duty one day to act as hostess at a juvenile entertainment at Marlborough house. In the middle of it she suddenly disappeared. A messenger was dispatched to Buckingham palace to see if the truant had run away to "grandma," but she wasn't there. At last a letter from her to the princess of Wales was discovered in the school-room, begging "mother" not to be angry; she did "hate parties" so, and she had gone to stay with the duchess of Teck (all this was over).

Not liking parties has been a characteristic of this princess ever since, though, having a strong sense of duty, which developed as she grew older, she doesn't run away from them any more, says the Strand. But those who know her know that if she could choose her life it would be one far from court—a life free from demands of etiquette and spent among the friends she loves. Whenever she can escape from the formalities that surround her she does so. Stories are told of her planning visits incognito with her sisters or other members of the court to some tearoom or shop, where for a little while she can do just as other women do. She likes to drop little anonymous surprises on the children she encounters, as once when she was shopping in Penrith and saw three small boys looking longingly at the toys in a window. The princess immediately took the part of Santa Claus and for once in their lives those small and ragged boys had all the toys they wanted.

Princess Victoria has a good deal of tact, says the Gentlewoman, and while she cares little about court life, her influence has brought about several needed changes there. The queen's ladies in waiting have special reason to be grateful to her. Up to the time of King Edward's accession the breakfast hour for the ladies in waiting was seven o'clock in the summer and 7:30 in the winter. They didn't like it, of course, but in so great a household changes are not easily made. Princess Victoria, however, got the hour changed to eight o'clock for all the year round. It was she, too, who secured a much more comfortable breakfast room for them than the one at their disposal during Queen Victoria's reign.

True to her nature, she has always refused to have a lady in waiting. When she goes to any public function she is accompanied by one of the queen's, as etiquette for bids her appearing alone. She has, by the way, several faithful attendants who always like going about with her when they can. They are her nephews and nieces, with whom she has been a great favorite ever since they were little things.

The SULTAN of OMAN

MUSCAT, CAPITAL OF OMAN

SULTAN OF OMAN

YOU have heard of the sultan of Turkey, the sultans of Morocco and Zanzibar, but but who on earth is the sultan of Oman? If you imagine that his kingdom is bounded on the south by the footlights, on the east and west by the wings, and on the north by the back cloth of a Broadway stage you are wrong. He has nothing at all to do with musical comedy. On the contrary, he is a very much alive personage who holds sway over the independent state of Oman, which is set like another Gibraltar at the entrance to the Persian gulf.

Though nominally Seyyid Faysal bin Turki, which is the name of the sultan, is a free agent in the management of the affairs of his kingdom, yet the Indian government, in the person of a British consul and political agent, keeps in very close touch with him, and for all practical purposes Oman is a protectorate of India.

There is a reason for this. Oman is a convenient basis for any operations which may be necessary to check the aggressive advances of any other power in the Persian belt, and as by its position it dominates the entrance to the Persian gulf, by its port Muscat, which is the only shore of British influence between Aden, the island of Socatra, and India, it is of great value in the eyes of the British government, who are presently eyeing askance the German commercial invasion of Persia with the Bagdad railway, as a menace to the safety of India.

The seat of government is Muscat, a picturesque rock-bound port, containing some 25,000 inhabitants, and carrying on a trade in the export of fruit, fish, mother o' pearl and the import of Indian goods including arms and ammunition in large quantities. The sultan, though he nominally exercises an absolute sway over a strip of a thousand miles of coast line, extending along the Persian gulf as far as Katar and containing 80,000 square miles, yet in reality, owing to the mountainous nature of the country, his power is confined to the immediate neighborhood of Muscat.

Oman was once a Portuguese possession but finally became an independent state through the influence of an ancestor of the present sultan in 1741 and added to the domains, taking in territory as far south as Zanzibar. It gradually lost its conquests and Zanzibar is now a separate sultanate under British protection.

There is no danger of the line of sultans or imams, as they are called, dying out as there is a large royal family, the eldest of whom is Seyyid Taimur bin Faysal. The sultan is extremely proud of his family of eight youngsters, and is not at all averse to taking the camera in their company. He is a man who though he may not have heard of the original of it, yet firmly believes in the Roosevelt creed of bidding the stork welcome, and the stork on its Omanese equivalent is a frequent royal guest.

One Candidate's Expenses

William R. Hearst, who once expended about $35,000 in a vain effort to become governor of the state of New York, drops back into the piker's class in comparison with James J. Storow, one of the defeated candidates for mayor of Boston. His sworn statement, required by law, shows that he spent $103,250 in the late municipal campaign. This places the Boston scheme, which eliminates the party caucus, primary and convention, far beyond the reach of the poor man. Mayor-elect Fitzgerald professes to be very much shocked over the statement. "The spectacle of a single man paying over $100,000 in an effort to obtain an election as mayor is abhorrent to thinking men," Mr. Fitzgerald is quoted as saying. This is undoubtedly true, although his own sworn statement was not available at the time for purposes of comparison.

What Substitute for Meat?

In reports of the meat boycott, now spreading over the country like a prairie fire, there have been occasional references to the vegetable diet adopted by the meat abstainers as a substitute for the flesh diet. But, so far, no definite vegetable bill of fare has been published, and it is probable that many in sympathy with the movement will decline to give up their meat courses until they find a satisfactory substitute for them. There are people who can get along with potatoes, cabbages, onions, and other staple vegetables, while others have a positive aversion to some or all of them. Sea and fresh water products would answer for a short period of abstinence from meat, but they are rather expensive just now. For several weeks clams have not been obtainable at the markets, with here and there an exception, at any price. The approach of Lent is helpful to the boycott movement, as the members of two or three churches usually abstain in whole or in part from meat during that period. At present it looks as though this popular protest against high prices for meats would be expensive and unproductive of any substantial benefits.

Agitation Over High Prices

"Revolutions have been started by less than the American people are now suffering now," says Senator Joseph L. Bristow, of Kansas. "Meat foots up to a quarter of the average household expenses, and it ought to be cheaper today instead of dearer than it was twenty-five years ago, because of the greater economy in its preparation and sale. When I was a boy, 25 per cent of the carcass went to waste. Now, nothing goes to waste—not even the blood." Senator Bristow's words crystallize the sentiment of protest in all parts of the country against the higher cost of living. Thus far the movement, which first took form in an actual boycott at Cleveland, has met with most success in the west. The east has been slow to follow, influenced perhaps by a widespread feeling among small dealers and in the labor unions that a universal boycott, though effective as a protest, would actually play into the hands of the packers, who, with their control of cold-storage houses and refrigerator lines, could carry their product through a prolonged boycott, whereas even thirty days' cessation of trade would put the small independents out of business.

What the scattered and sporadic boycott all over the country and the universal protest have done, however, is to focus the attention of the nation upon the necessity for economy. The most serious warnings have been sounded on this subject by economists, statisticians and business men without bringing the truth home to the people as has their sudden realization of its application in one particular.

President W. C. Brown, of the New York Central lines, said in a recent address: "The most portentous cloud upon the political or economic horizon, is the steady relentless increase of everything that goes to make up the cost of living."

Professor E. R. A. Seligman, of Columbia, says: "The situation is really so serious that the government should awaken to it."

James J. Hill has said that unless more economical methods of farming are devised the nation in another generation will be importing its food supplies. Such men as these hope that the national awakening will not exhaust itself on one particular phase of a national peril.

Against public clamor, the packers reply that high prices for meats are attributable to the high price of corn, and advocate that the poor be educated to eat cheaper cuts.

"These cuts are just as good, and more wholesome if properly cooked," says Harold Swift, of Swift & Company. "Prices are very high, but there is every indication that they will go higher."

TROTTER MEET ASSURED

Big Event to be Held at Libertyville Mile Track, Probably in July.

Things are shaping up for a trotting meet at the Libertyville mile track this coming July and the trotting horsemen are not this year as last to miss their sport at the splendid oval near Libertyville.

While the deal by which the mile track changed hands went over a bit too late for the new owners to get into the grand circuit meeting at Detroit, they are about ready to file an application for a date with the Great Western circuit, which means a series of events of the same level of excellence as in past years and possibly two meets.

The new owners are Otto R. Hanson of Milwaukee, who got the title, papers being made out to him when the transfer took place, John R. Thompson, Cook county treasurer, who says he is not in on the deal, but who may be nevertheless, and Forest E. Marsh, the head and founder of the Grattan stock farm near Libertyville.

While the report is current that the Grattan farm is to be sold, it is hardly credited, or if it is the opinion is that it will be sold merely to enable Marsh to take hold of the mile oval and run it successfully. If the sale takes place as reported it will be during latter February. There is another report that the mile oval will be transformed into an automobile track and that it will vie with Indianapolis in point of fast automobile and possibly aviation meets.

It is not believed that there is much to this because of the great expense entailed in the making of the needed changes.

It is also pointed out that Otto R. Hanson of Milwaukee, the owner, is a horseman and an enthusiastic one.

Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, and don't let a dealer sell you something in place of Swamp-Root—if you do you will be disappointed.

Remedy for Croup.

An old-wife remedy for croup is an application of roast onions mashed and laid upon a folded bandage of muslin, with sweet oil or even lard poured over the onions, and the poultice put on as hot as can be borne comfortably to the throat and chest.

Saved At Death's Door.

The door of death seemed ready to open for Murry W. Ayers, of Transit Bridge, N. Y. When his life was wonderfully saved. "I was in a dreadfully condition," he writes, "my skin was almost yellow; eyes sinking; tongue coated; emaciated from losing 40 pounds, growing weaker daily. Violent liver trouble pulling me down to death in spite of doctors. Then that matchless medicine—Electric Bitters—cured me. I regained the 40 pounds lost and now am well and strong." For all stomach, liver and kidney troubles they're supreme. 50c at J. H. Swan's.

OLD RESIDENTS OF LAKE CO. TAKE NOTICE

We would be glad to receive and publish in Keiloy's History of Lake County (now on the press and soon to be published) any corroborated reminiscences of early times, of yourself, friends or relatives who have lived in Lake county prior to 1876.

Also data from which we can make a literary sketch regarding their lives, date of birth, arrival in Lake county, marriages, deaths, etc.

We are endeavoring to make this a work of historical value, and while we desire to make mention of the people of the present day, it is our intention to perpetuate the memory of those early settlers who laid the foundation of and helped build our county. This offer does not call for the expenditure of any money on your part and remains open up to and including February 15, 1910, and if when this work is published no mention is made of yourself, parents or friends through modesty on your part, it is not our fault.

We need your assistance to make this a full and authentic history of Lake Co. Address all communications to C. C. Tracy, Lake Bluff, Ill.

Don't fill an oil or other kind of stove or lamp when it is lighted. This seems superfluous advice, but the casualties constantly recorded as a result of this procedure indicate that a reminder is not out of place.

Last Saturday evening Mrs. J. J. Morley entertained a number of friends at a "White Elephant" party at her home on Lake street. The company numbered twenty-six and a most enjoyable time was had by all. As each guest entered her "white elephant" was deposited upon a table which, when filled, somewhat resembled an old-fashioned junk pile. Progressive whist was the game of the evening, at the close of which a dainty luncheon was served. After lunch each lady presented to the one who had been her partner at the close of the game the article which she had brought as her "white elephant." Much amusement was caused by this distribution of gifts and as each one departed she carried away an elephant just a little "whiter" than her own. Those present were: Misses Gertrude Smart, Edna McVey, Pauline Smart, Helen Orne, Alice Emmons, Effie Holden and Elizabeth Webb; Mesdames B. R. A well defined rumor is to the effect that A. C. Frost will be back in full control of the Chicago & Milwaukee electric railroad some time in April, and April is given as the date when the change will take place and the receivers be discharged. The rumor is also to the effect that Bob Ives will be re-instated as superintendent. Mr. Ives is now superintendent of the quarries at Racine, which are still owned by Mr. Frost.

On last Thursday evening occurred a very pleasant gathering at the home of Van Patten brothers south of town, the occasion being Jake's birthday. The evening was spent in various games and music after which a bounteous repast was served, and in the wee sma' hour of the morning the guests departed for their various homes wishing their host and hostess many returns of the day. ANTIOCH SCHOOL NOTES

The monthly tests will be given this week.

Teacher—"What is friction?"
Willie—"Friction is a story."

The first year latin class is studying the passive voices of all conjugations.

The algebra class began the study of the graphing of statistics this week.

Merrill Sabin, a third grade pupil, is absent this week on account of illness.

The installation of officers will take place at the next meeting on Wednesday.

The eighth grade will begin the study of Shakespeare's "Twelfth Night" this week.

Marguerite Savage and Helen Efinger are absent this week, being sick with a bad cold.

Selections from Snowbound by Whittier are being studied by the 4th grade this week.

On Tuesday the third grade began the study of the Eastern Hemisphere in Geography.

Ralph James and Morris Radtke were on the sick list last week, but are back in school again now.

Seward Shultis and August Neimann are absent this week from the 4th grade on account of illness.

The semester examinations are over, which fact makes the high school pupils breathe more easily.

The horrors of the term examinations are now forgotten and all are working to raise the standard of the school.

At the last meeting of the Success club a committee was appointed by the president to see to the order of the desks in the two rooms.

Father—"But, do tell me, Alfred how could you fail again?"
Son—"Well, you see, we had another examination."—Ex.

The faculty of the Deerfield township high school are planning to arrange the course of study so that algebra will not be taught until the second year of the course.

Several new books have been ordered to be read and then put in the library. These books are fresh from the press and are excellent books for the young people to read.

"Did you ever notice how life's arithmetic is generally applied?"
"How?"

"It adds to your sorrows, divides your means, multiplies your cares and subtracts from your sorrows."

Two maps were drawn on the blackboard last week by two members of the eighth grade. The maps were the southern states showing where the different battles took place during the Civil War and tracing marches of the different generals.

The following problem was given out to the high school pupils by Mr. Hodge: A clerk can separate 35 letters or 28 paper per minute if the letters average 7 to each 4 ounces and papers 7 to each 13 ounces. How long will it take him to separate 112 pounds 8 ounces of letter and 178 pounds of papers?

Would you like to see the man you'll be when your youth has gone its way? Well you'll be the kind of man you'll find. That you are of a boy today. So if you would own when the years have flown, Warm heart and an honest brow And the light of truth, begin in youth To build that man right now.—Ex.

Back to the first principles, is what the superintendents and principals of the village and town schools of Cook county have declared. Their sentiments are to put an end to the futile attempts to make high schools out of the grade schools and colleges out of high schools, and to wait until the pupil has mastered the fundamentals before beginning to put the frills on his education.

With this object in view they have cut out the non-essentials from the curricula of their schools, simplifying the subjects so as to devote more time to drill on the fundamentals. Pupils make many mistakes from uncertainty about the fundamental principles. More attention will be paid to these letting the complicated things go until the pupils are mature and have had a sufficiently thorough training in the fundamentals.

A Wretched Mistake
to endure the itching, painful distress of Piles. There's no need to. Listen: "I suffered much from Piles," writes Will A. March, of Siler City, N. NATIONAL CAPITAL AFFAIRS

Uncle Sam Gets After the Loafers

WASHINGTON. — The comprehensive economies in the executive departments of the government which the administration is seeking to apply, will penetrate to the remotest sections of the country. Not only is the work of the departments in Washington being analyzed, but every public office in every state will receive the same treatment. This will include every mint, especially the big mint at Philadelphia, every custom house, every internal revenue office, every post office and all other offices where the public money is expended. The premise was made by Senator Aldrich, during the tariff debates, that a saving of from 25 to 40 per cent is possible and the administration is aiming to reach those figures.

This means that preparations are being made to make many consolidations where work heretofore has been duplicated. In fact, some of these consolidations are accomplished already. Also it means that the business of each bureau and office is being scanned, all with a view of increasing their efficiency and at the same time reducing the cost. The administration has gone far enough to know that this can be done.

The work of investigation is under

Mince Pie Story Interests Dr. Wiley

DR. HARVEY W. WILEY, government chemist, was greatly interested in the story which has reached Washington, of a Polish coal miner in Ohio, who, biting into a slab of Pittsburgh mince pie, struck a rivet and broke off seven teeth; but, being extremely hungry and having no money to buy actual food, kept at his grim task. A minute later he struck a stick of dynamite in the core of the same pie and was buried from his late residence the next day, leaving a wife in Poland and another in Ohio.

Thus lives are wiped out and homes are made desolate by the ordinary mince pie of commerce—a dubious and sinister victual, in whose dark depths a million dangers lurk.

The average mince pie manufacturer, we have no doubt whatever, starts out in business with high ideals and a real love for his art. It is his firm intent to devise only the best and purest pies and to use in them nothing but genuine fruit, honest soup meat, choice brands of fourth-rate flour, clean bacon rinds and chemically pure glucose, magnesia and aniline dyes.

But as he goes on and the mad

Prosperity Shown in Diamond Imports

PROSPERITY has returned, according to import and export records for 1909, published recently by the bureau of statistics of the department of commerce and labor. The surest indication of ready money, officials declare, is the diamond market, and during the first 11 months of 1909 this has boomed, the importation of cut diamonds amounting to $25,214,541, three times as much as during the corresponding period last year, and nearly $4,500,000 more than during that time in 1907.

Imports of cut diamonds this year, with December omitted, amounted to more than $1,000,000 above those in the 12 months of 1907, this banner year in the importation of cut gems. On these diamonds the government

Woman Makes Bugs for the Government

MAKING models of bugs for Uncle Sam's use in teaching agriculturists and "bugology" students how to distinguish between insects that are harmful and those that are useful is the novel occupation of Mrs. Otto Heldmann, well known as a sculptor in Washington.

It is no easy task that Mrs. Heldmann has. All the skill of the sculptor is necessary in the dexterous fashioning of the queer looking models, for although they are made on a

TO CURE RHEUMATISM

Prescription that Cured Hundreds Since Published Here.

"One ounce syrup of Sarsaparilla compound; one ounce Tonic compound; Add these to a half pint of good whiskey. Take a tablespoonful before each meal and at bed time; Shake the bottle well each time."

Any druggist has these ingredients in stock or will quickly get them from his wholesale house. Good results are felt from this treatment after the first few doses but it should be continued until cured. This also acts as a system builder, eventually restoring strength and vitality.

TOO LATE.

Thief—What's the time, please? Victim—Much too late for you. Your pal just got my watch.

EPIDEMIC OF ITCH IN WELSH VILLAGE

"In Dowlais, South Wales, about fifteen years ago, families were stricken wholesale by a disease known as the Itch. Believe me, it is the most terrible disease of its kind that I know of, as it itches all through your body and makes your life an inferno. Sleep is out of the question and you feel as if a million mosquitoes were attacking you at the same time. I knew a dozen families that were so affected.

"The doctors did their best, but their remedies were of no avail whatever. Then the families tried a druggist who was noted far and wide for his remarkable cures. People came to him from all parts of the country for treatment, but his medicine made matters still worse, as a last resort they were advised by a friend to use the Cuticura Remedies. I am glad to tell you that after a few days' treatment with Cuticura Soap, Ointment and Resolvent, the effect was wonderful and the result was a perfect cure in all cases.

"I may add that my three brothers, three sisters, myself and all our families have been users of the Cuticura Remedies for fifteen years. Thomas Hugh, 1650 West Huron St., Chicago, Ill., June 29, 1909."

Saving Time.

The family was to leave on the two o'clock train from Broad street station, so the mother was all in a hurry as she hurried the children in a certain West Philadelphia home.

"Now, children, get everything ready before luncheon," she said. "Don't leave everything until the last minute."

And the children said they wouldn't. Luncheon ended, they hurried into their wraps and started. In the hall the mother said:

"Edward, you didn't brush your teeth."

"Yes, ma'am, I did."

"But you couldn't," she said, "you didn't have time. Why you just got up from the table."

"I knew that," said Edward; "but we were in such a hurry I brushed them before I ate."—Philadelphia Times.

Real Early Rising.

Farmer Brown and Farmer Jones were near neighbors, and many a dispute took place as to who was the earlier riser. Both maintained that each excelled the other.

One day Farmer Brown determined to put the subject to test. Rising very early one morning, about two o'clock he proceeded to visit his friend, Great was his astonishment when he saw Mrs. Jones hanging out the clothes in the garden.

"Farmer Jones about?" he asked.

"Well," replied the lady, "he was the first part of the mornin', but I dunno where he be now."

INSOMNIA Leads to Madness, if Not Remedied in Time.

"Experiments satisfied me, some 5 years ago," writes a Topeka woman, "that coffee was the direct cause of the insomnia from which I suffered terribly, as well as the extreme nervousness and acute dyspepsia which made life a most painful thing for me.

"I had been a coffee drinker since childhood and did not like to think that the beverage was doing me all this harm. But it was, and the time came when I had to face the fact, and protect myself. I therefore gave up coffee abruptly and absolutely, and adopted Postum as my hot drink at meals.

"I began to note improvement in my condition very soon after I took on Postum. The change proceeded gradually, but surely, and it was a matter of only a few weeks before I found myself entirely relieved—the nervousness passed away, my digestive apparatus was restored to normal efficiency, and I began to sleep, restfully and peacefully.

"These happy conditions have continued during all of the 5 years, and I am safe in saying that I owe them entirely to Postum, for when I began to drink it I ceased to use medicine." Read the little book, "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs. "There's a Reason."

Ever send the above letter. A net one appears from time to time. They are genuine, true, and full of human interest.

BREAKS A COLD IN A DAY

And Cures any Cough that is Curable. Noted Physician's Formula.

This is said to be the most effective remedy for coughs and colds known to science. "Two ounces Glycerine; half ounce Concentrated Pine; Put these into half a pint of good whiskey and use in doses of teaspoonful to a tablespoonful every four hours. Shake bottle well each time." Any druggist has these ingredients in stock or will quickly get them from his wholesale house. The Concentrated Pine is a special pine product and comes only in half ounce vials each enclosed in an air tight case. But be sure it is labeled "Concentrated." This formula cured hundreds here last winter.

WHERE IT WORKED.

"While we were on our honeymoon, I always spoke French to my husband, so that no one should understand us." "So you went to France, did you?"

Childish Inference.

Little Julia was taking her afternoon walk with her mother. Her attention was attracted for the first time to a large church edifice on one of the street corners.

"Oh, mother!" she exclaimed, "whose nice big house is that?"

"That, Julia, is God's house," explained the mother.

"Some time later it happened that the child was again taken by the church, this time on Sunday evening when services were in progress. Julia, noticing the brilliantly lighted windows, drew her own conclusions.

"Oh, look, mother," she called out, "God must be having a party!"

The Ruling Passion.

An old Irishwoman, in describing a "gone but not forgotten," said: "Mike was the folne man intairole and he'd be living now, if it wasn't for the drink. He had a dog and sure that baste would bring him home from the saloon while he was so blind wid liquor he couldn't see a ship before him. And while he died—'tis the truth I'm speaking—his ghost walked at night, both back and forth, betwene the saloon and his house—and beind 'twas so drunk his dog knew him!"

The reader of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one created disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is so much talk in the curative power that they offer cure new known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. It is the Catarrh Cure, a new internal, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

A Modest Doctor.

While on his vacation, a city doctor attended the Sunday-morning service at a little country church. When the congregation was dismissed several of the members shook hands with him, and one, wishing to learn if he were a Methodist, inquired: "Are you a professor, brother?"

"Oh, no, indeed," answered the physician, modestly; "just an ordinary doctor."—Lippincott's.

What Resinol Accomplishes is Truly Wonderful.

I frequently have patients who are troubled with skin eruptions, and have taken occasion to recommend Resinol, and in some cases the cures have seemed miraculous, and had I not seen them both before and after, would scarcely have believed them true. One lady told me that she had spent over $100 in various remedies, and was cured with one 50c jar of Resinol. It is truly a wonderful cure for eczema and other itching troubles.

Whiskers.

A Roman poet told of the pride one of the late Caesars took in his great whiskers. On some of the wildwood Hill Billies I have seen beards some feet long, a switch of the loose ends hanging out from under the waistcoat. Others braided the growth and tied it around the neck, while still others braided it around the waist, tying it behind like apron strings. One told me he combed and plaited his every night, and put it away into a long linen bag or nightgown, so as to keep it from getting all tangled up with his wife and his feet.—New York Press.

The Smiths.
As to Smith, a correspondent points out that while there are now about 350,000 members of the great family in England alone, in Old Testament times, according to the first book of Samuel, "there was no Smith throughout the land of Israel." This verse the late Bishop Wilberforce spotted as the hardest one in the Bible to quote without smiling. —London Chronicle.

Arnold's Repentance.
Mortality might bear coinage as a word to be defined by "death-bed utterances." In the whole American catalogue there is nothing more pathetic than the prayer of Benedict Arnold, repentant traitor: "Let me die in the old uniform in which I fought my battles for freedom. May God forgive me for putting on any other." —Illustrated Sunday Magazine.

Living Omnibuses.
Oliver Wendell Holmes compared a man to a living omnibus in which he carries all his ancestors. Most of us are copies of those who have gone before us. We take up into our lives their traits and characteristics. We are hampered by their faults, helped by their virtues. Our progress is accelerated or handicapped by what we have received from our ancestors. —Success Magazine.

PASSED EVENING IN PEACE

Foxy Pittsburg Man Devised Scheme Which Worked Out Into a Beautiful Success.

The wise man of Pittsburg lives in Shady side. If there's one thing he loves to do when he goes home it is to read a book in peace. One night when he arrived home he was informed by wife and daughters that they were to have company that night. The wise man's face fell as he contemplated the new volume under his arm, "one of the six best," etc. "Who were they? O, some women friends. 'I'll beat the game,'" said Mr. Wise Man to himself. Immediately after the evening meal he dashed out to East Liberty, bought one of those out-pictur puzzles, with 250 pieces in it, dashed back again, and when the company arrived and had been comfortably seated, he interrupted the chatter to spring the puzzle on the unsuspecting women. They fell into the trap. The only table big enough for the game was the large dining table. This was cleared, and all gathered about to patch the big picture together.

When they were well absorbed, Mr. Wise Man took his book off in a corner, in a comfortable rocker, and read until aroused after midnight only by the departure of the company. The picture lay on the dining table about one-quarter complete. The guests were invited to come again.

The next morning breakfast was served in the kitchen on a small table, because mother and daughters refused to disturb the puzzle until they had completed it. For a week the puzzle occupied the dining table and mother and the girls would work at it in odd moments, while Mr. Wise Man read his books. —Pittsburg Gazette-Times.

Tell me thy company and I will tell thee who thou art. —Cervantes.

A Wild Blizzard Hagluz
brings danger, suffering—often death—to thousands, who take colds, coughs and legripes—that terror of Winter and Spring. Its danger signals "stuffed up," nostrils, lower part of nose sore, chills and fever, pain in back of head, and a throat-gripping cough. When grip attacks, as you value your life, don't delay getting Dr. King's New Discovery. "One bottle cured me," writes A. L. Dunn, of Pine Valley, Miss., "after being 'laid up' three weeks with grip." For sore, lungs, hemorrhages, coughs, colds, whooping cough, bronchitis, asthma, it's supreme. 50c, $1.00. An Editor's Industry.
In preparing an edition of Shakespeare for the press, Mr. Stevens gave an instance of editorial activity and perseverance which has been seldom equaled. For a period of 18 months he devoted himself entirely to the work, and during that time he left his house every morning at one o'clock and proceeded, without any regard for weather, to the chambers of a friend in Staple Inn, where a portion of the letter press was lying ready for his revision; so that while the printers were sleeping the editor was awake, and the whole edition of 16 large volumes was completed in the space of twenty months.

Make a map of your floor for the intricate places that suggest difficulties in the cutting and possible failure in the fitting of your new linoleum. The map may be a perfectly fitted size and shape, done in newspaper or even heavier manilla paper. The paste pot comes in just here. The first trial won't be perfect, but every little chink may be fitted in by a pasting process until you've got the exact facsimile, and then for the final cutting of the new ellicloth.

The forethought and trial paper will be of just the same use as is the perfect paper pattern in garment making. Try it and you will be convinced. The map is useful, whether the floor covering be carpet, ellicloth, felt, denim or matting.

Fight Irritability.
We must take life as we find it, better if we can, but certainly there is no sense in throwing our heads against the stone wall of absurd temper and unnecessary peevishness. There are many exercises for quieting the nerves, but every one requires that you first gain control of yourself. And the girl who has acquired the irritability habit cannot overcome it until she recognizes this fact.—Exchange.

Boring Artesian Wells.
The boring of an artesian well is not an easy task. The well of Orenelle, France, required from December 4, 1833 to February 26, 1841, for completion. The one at Passy of the same depth took only two years to make. Engineers now count upon one year in which to complete the well of Malsons-Lamotte. This well is already at a depth of 460 meters. It will go to a depth of 550 meters.

The Only One.
The burglar's business is about the only business in which it doesn't pay to advertise.

THOUSANDS GATHER AT BATHS

Arabian Men and Women Make Meeting Place of Springs at Hamman-Rirha.

Dr. Georges Martin of the thermal station of Hamman-Rirha gives an interesting account of the Arabs who come in crowds to take the baths at that station. Their number every year can be estimated at more than 20,000. Of these bathers about two-thirds are women. Besides the medical effect the baths are for the Arab women a meeting place, where she encounters her friends, as they remain a long time in the baths, three-quarters of an hour or more. They dip themselves in the water from time to time; then, sitting on the curb, they chat, laugh and sing.

Sometimes one of them addresses an invocation to the Sultan Sliman (Soliman), patron of the springs hidden in the mountain. The mere believing sometimes receive their recompense in seeing the steam rise from the waters. After the bath the native rolls himself in his cloak and lies in the sun.

To quench the burning thirst which the very warm bath gives Arabs suck the juice of lemons or oranges or they go to the "cafe maure" attached to the baths to drink a tiny cup of coffee. Many Arabs, instead of coming to the establishment, prefer to take the bath in the open air. On the side of the hill a spring flows from the rock and the natives come to bathe in the natural basin where the water gushes out.

As a votive offering the women hang portions of their veils on the neighboring bushes. The childrens come there piously to plunge in their small stuffed dolls. It is there that the prayer is above all agreeable to Sliman. They sacrifice towels to him, they burn incense and spices in the earthen braziers, and it is in his honor that the little many-colored wax tapers stuck in the ground burn so often at night.
